Exploring the World of Fibers 2024

January 6 – February 4, 2024

The Lexington Arts & Crafts Society Weaving & Fiber Arts Studio invites you to submit work for our biennial fiber exhibit to be held January 6 – February 4, 2024. An opening reception will be held on Sunday, January 7, 2024.

Exploring the World of Fibers 2024, builds on the transition of the LexArt Weavers Guild into the Weaving and Fiber Arts studio, our efforts at broader public engagement and access, and marks our second biennial fiber exhibition. Please join us as we celebrate and showcase fiber arts from New England and throughout the region.

The exhibit will be juried by Jennifer Swope, David and Roberta Logie Curator of Textiles at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. It will be displayed in our Molly Harding Nye Gallery, an outstanding museum-style exhibition space.

About the exhibit

Launching our gallery schedule for 2024, this exhibit will explore the broad range of work being created by regional fiber artists and traditional and contemporary weavers. We encourage and welcome participation from our members, artists throughout New England and the Northeast. We hope the exhibit meets LexArt's goals to be accessible to the broadest possible audience, deliver a high-quality arts experience to our community and support and showcase area artists.

For more information on how to submit items for consideration, see the Submission Guidelines attached to this email or click here. Please note that we ask that you pay the entry fee here before submitting images.

Accepted Artwork: Artists will be notified of accepted works on or about December 8, 2023

About us

The Lexington Arts and Crafts Society (LexArt) is committed to sparking joy, enriching lives, and building community through the practice, teaching, and sharing of art and craft. The Weaving and Fiber Arts studio is one of nine focused art and craft studio groups at LexArt.
